

You are cordially invited to a pre-opening conversation and reception
for the Queens Museum exhibition

What Border Have You Crossed?

Bordr, an international NGO that explores borders both political and metaphorical, is proud to invite you to the pre-opening celebration of the six-week interactive exhibition of border stories at the Queens Museum, opening on November 21.

The informal evening will explore the development of Bordr from years of pilot projects - camera lending and technical innovation on five continents - to the Bordr method and international organization of today. The story encompasses African border traders, New York migrants, stateless people in Jordan, European students and artists, and delves into psychological theory, experimental journalism, and social practice. What do borders bring to storytelling, social change, technology and individual participation? How does border exploration change the world? And does it?

The conversation is followed by drinks and light food.

Date: Friday, November 20, 2015

Time: Doors open 6 pm, talk starts 6:15 pm, reception 7– 8 pm

Location: Scandinavia House, 58 Park Avenue, New York

RSVP and more information: chrissie@eunia.se

Full program: <http://www.queensmuseum.org/events/what-border-have-you-crossed>

Kultur i Väst

